

When You Turned Five

Laurence J. Pino

$\text{♩} = 126$

Piano

3

4 2 3

1. When I first saw you there,
2. All of us stand ing here

6

2 2 3 1

rest - ing on your sweet side, I knew at once my dear watch - ing you laugh and play; hold - ing the vi sion near,

8

1 3 5 1 4 4 3 4

my soul could ne - ver hide. Who could have ev - er thought in - hal - ing your bou - quet. What could this feel - ing be, how gentle your breath se - rene? Who could have ev - er guessed waves roll - ing o - ver me? How deep could this love be.

10

4 2 4 4

12

3 1 3 loco (play as written) 1 3 1

I could have lived this dream? 3. These years have mul - ti - plied;
 as it em - brac - es me?

14

4 4 3 4

days seemed to just fly by. A blink, a head turns in 16

2 4 2 3 2 4

and now you're turn - ing five. But just to freeze this time, cap - tur - ing love's soft-rhyme. But just to find the space, to keep us in this place.

18

5 5 4 3

21

4. Sweet - heart, I clearly see what lies — a - head. Fol-low your des - ti - ny

LH 8va higher

24

leave no days un - read. And when that time will come poco rit. rit.

LH loco

26

when into his arms you'll run, I'll just re-mem - ber back to when you turned five. —

29

And when that time will come when with him your future lies,

31

I'll just thank God a - bove for when you turned five. —